

NEW YEAR FOCUS

The new year at ISCA has kicked off with creative workshops and subject lessons based around a new theme. All students are busy researching their projects and visiting galleries and museums in London for inspiration. Second year students have successfully submitted their university applications and are now in the process of building professional portfolios of work with the support of specialist tutors.

PRELIMINARY PROGRAMME

The 2019 Preliminary Programme at ISCA has started with a small group of enthusiastic students who have already produced exciting and thoughtful work. The course, which introduces the formal elements of art and design, and how to work in a conceptual way, provides a thorough preparation to either A levels or Portfolio Programme. There is an additional intake for the course in April 2019.

ISCA SUMMER 2019

Following the success of previous Summer Schools, ISCA is delighted to announce its 2019 programme which introduces young and aspiring designers to the creative arts and supports them through the process of developing a portfolio of work. Specialist workshops, combined with cultural visits to London and English language teaching, makes this an exciting and fulfilling programme.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF ARTS

In the last week of term, tutors from the Royal Academy of Arts in London came to ISCA each day to run a series of day-long lifedrawing workshops to encourage students to explore their skills. The intensive sessions involved a series of artistic challenges designed to encourage students to explore and develop their drawing skills and hone techniques in this key area. Students enjoyed the fast-paced creative exercises and the work will form a vital part of their sketchbooks.
