VIRTUAL WELCOME

With fresh class timetables issued to accommodate different time zones around the world, students are ready to get back to work following the spring holiday. There are new projects to explore, research to complete and experiments to develop. During recent individual tutorials, tutors were pleased to see how students are staying motivated and using their time well. All were keen to begin classes and to reconnect with their peers and share ideas.

Over the course of this term, we will continue to add to the growing Wall of Work and encourage all ISCA students to send images of themselves in their home studio spaces and of their creative work.
